What are kids really doing on line

http://www.cyberwise.org/

What Are Kids (Really) Doing Online?

As social networking becomes ever more popular, is it becoming a more of a concern for parents?

Lets discuss it

How do your children feel when you share pictures of them

What should parents be aware of?

- The information that is out there to assist you.

- net-aware.org

More information

Speak to an expert in-store

Anyone can get free online safety advice from O2's friendly experts in-person at an O2 store. They can help you with the settings on the apps, such as turning on privacy settings and turning off GPS.

Book a free appointment now

Get your question answered

If you want specific advice on video chat and video sharing or you just want some friendly advice - you can speak to one of our experts from the O2 & NSPCC helpline.

0808 800 5002

Online safety

We've teamed up with O2 to help you keep children safe when they're using the internet, social networks, apps, games and more.

Online safety advice

What can parents do to protect children?

- The most valuable thing a parent can do is talk to their child(ren)
- Be aware of inappropriate messaging or sexting (including their own digital footprint)
- Who are they talking to
- What should they do if something is wrong
- Be familiar with site and platforms your children are using
- Talk to your child's school if they are being bullied online.
- Make sure you and your child know where and how to report a site or to get posts removed from a site
- Agree time limits or use time limiting apps
- Make sure you understand privacy and security settings for the app your child is using